

Banking & Commercial Finance

Lawyers in Baker & Daniels' banking and commercial finance group represent lenders, agents, participants and borrowers in a broad range of commercial lending and related transactions. Our professionals deliver a full range of services in single bank loan matters, as well as complex syndicated transactions.

We have extensive experience working with national, regional and community banks, as well as other lending and financial institutions in loan origination and creditor issues. We represent these lenders in the areas of loan structuring, negotiating and drafting transaction documents, regulatory compliance, collateral perfection and enforcement, and inter-creditor and subordination issues. We also regularly represent private and public companies in finance negotiations, restructurings and workouts.

Baker & Daniels is a full-service law firm, and that gives clients readily available access to our experienced professionals in other financial areas as they may develop, including regulatory, compliance, lender liability, bankruptcy and other issues. Experienced counsel also comes from our lawyers in tax, labor and employment, environmental law, intellectual property and a number of other related practice concentrations.
